

QLAC Client Case Study

How can a Qualifying Longevity Annuity Contract IRA reduce required minimum distributions?¹

IRS regulations allow a deferred income annuity (DIA) to be offered as a Qualifying Longevity Annuity Contract (QLAC). The Brighthouse Guaranteed Income BuilderSM deferred income annuity can now be purchased as a QLAC IRA, allowing income payments to begin at an advanced age while avoiding payment of some required minimum distributions (RMDs) on the value of the QLAC until as late as age 85 – instead of 70½.

Hypothetical example for illustrative purposes only.

Meet Max

Age 68 and retired

Some facts about Max:

- Has traditional IRAs with a value totaling $520,000 as of December 31 from the prior calendar year
- Has additional retirement income sources, including Social Security and a pension, and would like to tap into other IRA income sources in 12 years
- Wants to ensure that he has enough guaranteed lifetime income later in retirement as he expects his cost of living will increase over time
- Would prefer to avoid having to receive some of his RMDs beginning at age 70½
- Wants to delay paying taxes on money that isn't needed in early retirement²

¹ An annuity in an IRA does not provide tax deferral and the annuity should not be purchased for such purpose.

Max's IRA assets in action

Consider Max's current situation with traditional IRAs totaling $520,000. The hypothetical example offers a glimpse into Max's required RMDs for a 10-year window, beginning at age 70½.

Max's Current Traditional IRA Assets

● IRA #1 ● IRA #2

Max's RMD obligation³ with his current traditional IRAs over a hypothetical 10-year period:

Age 70½: $20,134

Age 80: $25,473

Max's cumulative RMDs subject to taxation for this period:

$251,275

Now, what if Max purchases a DIA, such as the Brighthouse Guaranteed Income Builder, as a QLAC IRA? Rolling over part of his $520,000 in traditional IRAs to purchase the maximum allowable QLAC – $130,000⁴ – Max can avoid the payment of some RMDs under his IRAs and the obligation of the associated taxes while scheduling guaranteed lifetime income for later in retirement:

Max's Traditional IRA Assets With a QLAC

● IRA #1 ● IRA #2 ● Guaranteed Income Builder – with QLAC

Max's RMD obligation³ with his QLAC of $130,000 over a hypothetical 10-year period:

Age 70½: $15,100

Age 80: $19,105

Max's cumulative RMDs subject to taxation for this period:

$188,456

(+$62,819 in RMDs deferred)

Besides Max's RMD savings, his $130,000 purchase payment has secured him annual income as part of his Guaranteed Income Builder-QLAC contract.⁵ If Max defers income until he's age 80, he'll have $22,923.60 in annual income for life.⁶

³ Required Minimum Distributions based on the Uniform Lifetime table, Brighthouse Financial Federal Tax Quick Reference Guide, 2018. Assumes IRA account growth at 3% annually. Inflation and discount are not applied and all amounts are in current dollars. These examples are hypothetical and for illustrative purposes only.

⁴ An individual's purchase limit for QLACs is the lesser of $130,000 (total of all QLAC purchases) and 25% of the value of all IRA assets (excluding Roth IRAs, but including QLAC IRAs) as of December 31 of the prior year.

⁵ A QLAC does not make available any commutation benefit, cash surrender right, or other similar feature. Adhering to the purchase limit is your responsibility.

⁶ Future income payments are based on the annuity purchase rate available on the day you make a purchase payment into the Guaranteed Income Builder annuity. Guaranteed Income Builder income payments in the example were based on a single purchase payment, Lifetime Income with Cash Refund option for a male, age 68 and the hypothetical annuity purchase rate developed on 9/20/18, and is not to be construed as a guarantee or estimate of amounts to be paid in the future. In MA and MT, unisex annuity purchase rates are used to determine income payments.
