Common Questions

Learn more about Qualified Longevity Annuity Contracts

The Brighthouse Guaranteed Income Builder® deferred income annuity is available as a qualifying longevity annuity contract (QLAC) for those who want to leverage a portion of individual retirement account (IRA) assets, providing an opportunity to build customized, pension-like income for retirement. Here are some answers to common questions you may have regarding QLACs as part of your overall planning strategy for income in retirement.

01

What is a QLAC?

A QLAC is a deferred income annuity contract that allows a portion of tax-qualified assets to be used to purchase future lifetime retirement income. Until income payments from the contract begin, required minimum distributions (RMDs) for amounts used to purchase the QLAC – that would otherwise begin at age 73 – are deferred.¹

02

How does a QLAC work?

You can defer RMDs with a QLAC until an income start date you select, which can be as late as age 85. Until you begin income payments, there are no RMDs to satisfy for the assets allocated to the QLAC.² In order for a QLAC to remain a QLAC, purchase limits apply (see question 04).

03

Why consider a QLAC?

A deferred income annuity may be a good option if longevity risk – living longer than your assets will last – is a concern. A QLAC lets you schedule income to begin at a later age than would otherwise be available. This can help you maximize future lifetime income in retirement while reducing annual RMDs and corresponding tax liabilities.

04

Is there a purchase limit with a QLAC IRA?³

Yes. For contracts purchased on or after December 29, 2022, the maximum purchase payment may not exceed $200,000 (subject to annual cost-of-living increases starting in 2024), less previous purchase payments to any QLAC. Lower QLAC purchase payment limits may apply to QLAC contracts issued before December 29, 2022. You should consult with a tax professional to ensure that the purchase payment does not exceed the amount allowed under the Internal Revenue Code.³

¹ Generally, clients must take required minimum distributions from their Individual Retirement Annuity (IRA) once they reach age 73 or at age 72 if they were born on or after July 1, 1949 through December 31, 1950. Clients should seek advice from a qualified tax professional for complete details.

² A QLAC does not make available any Cash Out Option, cash surrender right, or other similar feature. Adhering to the purchase limit is your responsibility. You should consult with your own independent legal and tax professionals prior to establishing a QLAC. Brighthouse Financial cannot provide tax advice.

Withdrawals of taxable amounts are subject to ordinary income tax. Withdrawals made before age 59½ may also be subject to a 10% federal income tax penalty. Distributions of taxable amounts from a non-qualified annuity may also be subject to the 3.8% Net Investment Income Tax that is generally imposed on interest, dividends, and annuity income if the modified adjusted gross income exceeds the applicable threshold amount. Withdrawals will reduce the death benefit and account value. Withdrawals may be subject to withdrawal charges.

Buying an annuity to fund a qualified retirement plan or IRA should be done for the annuity's features and benefits other than tax deferral. Tax deferral is generally a feature of a qualified retirement plan or IRA, so an annuity would not provide an additional tax deferral benefit. The product described in this material is not made available to employer-sponsored qualified retirement plans. For non-qualified annuities, tax deferral is not available to corporations and certain other entities.
