BLICEconomic Benefit Calculations Before 01/29/2002

In general, per IRS Notice 2002-8, for arrangements entered into before January 29, 2002, an insurer's published premium rates available to all standard risks for initial issue one-year term insurance may be used to compute imputed income.

There is very little IRS guidance on the preceding requirements; therefore, clients should consult their tax professionals about the use of these rates to compute imputed income. In lieu of these rates, Table 2001 rates can be used to compute the imputed income.

Economic Benefit Calculations After 01/28/2002

The following tables are not suitable for economic benefit calculations for split-dollar plans and life insurance in qualified plans for arrangements entered into after January 28, 2002.

Table 2001 rates can be used to compute the imputed income.

BLIC/BLNY

In general, per IRS Notice 2002-8, for arrangements entered into before January 29, 2002, an insurer's published premium rates available to all standard risks for initial issue one-year term insurance may be used to compute imputed income.

There is very little IRS guidance on the preceding requirements; therefore, clients should consult their tax professionals about the use of these rates to compute imputed income. In lieu of these rates, Table 2001 rates can be used to compute the imputed income.

In general, per IRS Notice 2002-8, for arrangements entered into after January 28, 2002, an insurer's published premium rates may not be used for economic benefit unless (i) the insurer generally makes the availability of such rates known to persons who apply for term insurance, and (ii) the insurer regularly sells term insurance at such rates through its normal distribution channels.

There is very little IRS guidance on the preceding requirements; therefore, clients should consult their tax professionals about the use of Brighthouse One Year Term rates to compute imputed income. In lieu of these rates, Table 2001 rates can be used to compute the imputed income.
